Fuel prices have not increased

Date of Issue: Tuesday, 8th September, 2015

The Energy Regulation Board (ERB) has noted with great concern rumors that have been circulating that the price of fuel has been increased.

The ERB would like to advise that the price of petroleum products has neither been revised nor have prices changed. The prices announced on 13th July 2015 are still in effect. To this effect the official pump prices are as follows:

- K8.59 for diesel;
- K9.87 for petrol; and
- K6.12 for kerosene.

In the event of a price change the ERB promptly announces adjustments through the media and also formally informs players in the sector such as Oil Marketing Companies, Dealers and Transporters.

The ERB would like to assure the public that there has been no increment in fuel prices. Due processes are always followed by the ERB during a price review and any change is subsequently announced.

Members of the public and stakeholders should take this as official notification.
